FINANCIÈRE TERXIA
food industry - real estate - energy

we invest in sustainable objectives

Financière Terxia is a holding company with several different areas of activity in different countries invested in sustainable development objectives.

Our missions are organized at three different levels : food industry, real estate and energy.

first value

The first is at a macro level, involving governmental, institutional and private multinational players in the energy sector.

second value

The second operates on an intermediate level, concerning responsible and sustainable ethical construction. Our aim is to work with developers to create a better future for our urban environment.

third value

the third involves a micro vision, acting on suppliers and food consumers. By focusing on this primary and essential sector of the economy, Terxia is making a difference to everyday life.

our departments

Financière Terxia is a holding company with several different areas of activity in different countries invested in sustainable development objectives.

The first and historic one is the food industry. The second is real estate construction. The last is the energy sector. Each of these domains is the subject of partnerships with institutions and private companies of international stature.

food industry

The first and most historic is the food industry. Our group finances, advises and implements projects on a national and international scale, from the supplier to the consumer, including operations.

real estate

The second is property construction. With numerous developer partners in Europe, Terxia takes an ethical and responsible approach to each of its projects.

energy

The last area is energy, with a European project valued at more than three billion euros, subsidised and recognised by the European Commission as one of the most promising of the last ten years. Terxia is deploying throughout the Mediterranean basin to offer responsible energy ranges that are committed to the future.

feeding people

Terxia's ambition is to bring the supplier closer to the end consumer by opening more than 200 points of sale across central Europe. A vision of short circuits guaranteed both for the producer and for the end customer, who knows exactly what he is buying.

housing people

Ecological and efficient fast-track construction to increase profitability, reduce lead times and meet the United Nations' sustainable development goals. Having invested more than 12 years ago in this responsible and environmentally aware manufacturer, Terxia already has more than 1000 orders across Europe.

lighting people

Validated as one of the most promising projects of the last 10 years by the European Commission, registered as a supplier to the United Nations and its 193 member countries, as well as its 22 agencies, this energy project valued at more than 3 billion euros has already received the subsidies it needs to get off the ground and guarantees the next stages of its deployment.

Financière Terxia is a holding company that has invested and continues to invest in economically responsible and promising areas. On the strength of a number of successes, the holding company has surrounded itself with numerous partners, thus deploying a financial force with several tools available and designed for each situation.
